6. News from Members

- Jörg Lange, Professor for steel structures at the Technische Universität Darmstadt, Germany, was awarded the “ars legendi award” for his outstanding contribution to engineering education. This award is donated every two years. The jury lauded his dedication to teaching especially e-learning and student projects. He introduced new teaching forms that activate students and lead to a better learning outcome. Also his research work in this area was complimented. Read more.. (in German).

7. News from The National Groups

France – On September 7, 2011, the Delegation of the Rhone des Alpes of the AFGC (Association Française de Génie Civile) is organising a day excursion to the Viaduct of St Gervais. This 240m long bridge, original in both structure and geometry, crosses the Bonnant valley lying 80m below and has two traffic lanes and sidewalks for pedestrians and bicycles. The viaduct is part of the bypass around the centre of Saint-Gervais. More Information..

Spain - The Spanish Group of IABSE is collaborating with the Eduardo Torroja Institute and the Technical University of Madrid, and several institutions, in organising an international conference on research in construction entitled ‘Structural Milestones of Architecture and Engineering’.
